Bruſſels, March 20.

COUNT Koningſeck, the Emperor's Miniſter, and M. Geldermalſen and Vandenbergh, Deputies of the States General, did this Day conclude and ſign an Agreement for the Quartering of the Imperial Troops in this Country: Which Agreement ſets forth on the Part of the ſaid Deputies, that according to the Treaties of Raſtad and Baden, thoſe Troops ought not to have entred theſe Provinces till after the Barrier ſhould be ſettled, and till the two Maritime Potentates ſhould have delivered them up to his Imperial Majeſty; that the Count had cauſed the Council of State to iſſue Orders for the Reception of thoſe Troops, contrary to the Regulations of the preſent Government of theſe Provinces, by which that Council is obliged to act in Subordination to and by Direction of the ſaid two Potentates: But that their High Mightineſſes having no other View or End than the eſtabliſhing of a good Underſtanding and ſincere Friendſhip with his Imperial Majeſty, which they look upon as the ſole Foundation of the Barrier, had conſented (with a Salvo to their Rights, without approving the Entrance of the ſaid Troops, and without Prejudice to any Meaſures which they ſhall take in Concert with his Britannick Majeſty hereupon,) that their Deputies ſhould confer with the Count and concert with him the Quartering of the ſaid Troops; the whole to be done in ſuch Manner as is conſiſtent with the Authority of the two Potentates, according to the Eſtabliſhment of the preſent proviſional Government of theſe Countries. And on the Part of Count Koningſeck this Agreement ſets forth, that his Imperial Majeſty comprehending and underſtanding by the Convention made for the Evacuation of Luxembourg and Limbourg, that the ſaid Troops were not obliged to remain above ſix Weeks in thoſe two Provinces, had ſent him poſitive Orders for their marching on the Expiration of that Term; that he having waited till the 8th Inſtant without receiving any Counter-Order from Vienna, it was not in his Power to delay their March any longer; and finding that M. Vandenbergh, to whom he then applied, had no Inſtruction for the Reception and Quartering of thoſe Troops, he could not do otherwiſe than require the Council of State (for preventing the Diſorders which the Troops might commit if they ſhould ſtay in the open Country) to diſpatch their Orders for it: That his Intention was not to make any Innovation thereby in the Government as it is at preſent eſtabliſhed by the two Potentates, which Government ſhall ſubſiſt till this Country be put into the Poſſeſſion of his Imperial Majeſty; for Proof of which, he would not refuſe to concert with their High Mightineſſes Deputies, in what Towns and Places to quarter the ſaid Troops with leaſt Prejudice to the Country; and did agree, that they ſhould be received and quartered by Virtue of Orders from the ſaid Council of State, to be iſſued as the Miniſters of the two Potentates ſhould direct, and not otherwiſe. The Agreement proceeds to declare, That conformably to the Repartition of Quarters which the ſaid Miniſters of the two Potentates ſhould communicate to the Council of State, Orders ſhall be iſſued by that Council for the Reception of the ſaid Troops into the ſmall Towns of the Provinces of Brabant, Hainault and Flanders: So Bruſſels, Antwerp and Ghent are exempted from quartering any of theſe Troops; as is alſo Bruges, unleſs the States General conſent at Count Koningſeck's Requeſt to the quartering there of one Regiment, which coming in the Rear of the reſt will not arrive at Tirlemont till the 24th or 25th Inſtant; otherwiſe, ſome other Quarters muſt be ſettled for that Regiment. Part of the ſaid Imperial Troops entered Louvain to Day, others will enter Liere, Vilvorde and Mechlin to Morrow; and Count Vehlen who commands them in chief is come hither, but is to have his Head-Quarters at Aloſt.
